The “Workforce VDC Education” is a specialized educational program for the workforce on the construction site.

Professionals in this field have to learn a new language: Virtual Design and Construction (VDC)
What is VDC?

VDC is an industry management practice that allows multiple stakeholders to collaborate with the same data, models, and visualizations efficiently and effectively.

As technology and digitalization play an increasingly important role in our lives and also on construction sites, it is important to make them available for all involved to make the construction sites future-oriented.

Today, VDC must be understood not only by engineers, architects, and contractors — VDC must be made accessible to the construction industry workforce on-site.
